Duke University’s 2013 Martin Luther King, Jr. Commemoration theme seeks to commemorate the Legacy of Dr. King and 50 Years of Black Students at Duke. In 1963, as Dr. Martin L. King, Jr. and thousands of his supporters gathered at the nation’s capital for the March on Washington, five black students enrolled at Duke, forever transforming the university.

The Candle of Peace, Hope and Justice celebrates the light of God that shines through the darkness, pain and violence in the world, which is symbolized by the barbed-wire that surrounds the candle. As this candle is lit, we remember those who are experiencing oppression around the world and we stand in resistance to injustice.

We Shall Overcome
MARTIN

We shall overcome, we shall overcome, we shall overcome someday!
Oh, deep in my heart I do believe we shall overcome someday!

We’ll walk hand in hand, we’ll walk hand in hand, we’ll walk hand in hand someday! Oh, deep in my heart I do believe we’ll walk hand in hand someday!

We shall all be free, we shall all be free, we shall all be free someday!
Oh, deep in my heart I do believe we shall all be free someday!

We shall live in peace, we shall live in peace, we shall live in peace someday! Oh, deep in my heart I do believe, we shall live in peace someday!

The Lord will see us through, the Lord will see us through, the Lord will see us through someday! Oh, deep in my heart I do believe, the Lord will see us through someday!

William C. Turner, Jr. is a native of Richmond, Va., where he was educated in the Henrico public school system. Following graduation from Virginia Randolph High School at the top of his class in 1966, he matriculated at Duke University. He was in the fourth class African American undergraduates admitted to the school. A walk-on to the football team, he was for a time the only black player. He was instrumental in the recruiting efforts that led to the current patterns. He earned three degrees from Duke: BS in electrical engineering ['71], M.Div [74], Ph.D in religion ['84].

Turner has been invested deeply in the life of the institution during period of great change development as a student activist, administrator, and faculty member. As administrator, he has served the university as Assistant Provost and Dean of Black Affairs, Acting Director of African American Studies, and Director of Black Church Affairs. In the faculty he has served as Instructor and Assistant Professor of Theology and Black Church Studies, Associate Professor, and Professor of the Practice of Homiletics. His publications include numerous articles and books for both scholarly and church audiences.

An active churchman, he served an assistantship in the African Methodist Episcopal Church, and pastorates in the United Holy Church of America: Assistant Pastor, Fisher Memorial [1974-79]; Faith Gospel Tabernacle [1979-81]; Mack’s Chapel [1985-90]. Since 1990 he has pastored Mt. Level Missionary Baptist Church in Durham, where he has been active in the community. He travels widely as a preacher and lecturer in both the academy and the church.

Turner has been married to Joyce Ann Rivers since 1974. They are the proud parents of two daughters—Jamila [Lee Little], and Alice; two sons—William, IV, and Frederick; and one granddaughter, Zuri Little.
