Service of Worship

Sixth Sunday of Easter
May 1, 2016, Page Auditorium
Eleven o'clock in the morning

≈ Bridging Faith and Learning ≈

"River of Blue", via Creative Commons.

In today's Scripture readings, we see the Apostle John's vision of the heavenly city of Jerusalem, as God makes heaven and earth anew. The river of the water of life and the tree of life witness to the abundance of the Lord's new creation, as the holy light of God illuminates all eternity. Those written in the book of life will fall down in eternal worship of Jesus, the Lamb of God, as the nations find their healing through him.

At the close of today's service, the Lord's Supper will be celebrated in Page Auditorium by the seats at the front left of the stage, in front of the organ. Immediately following Communion, a service of prayer for healing will be held in the same location. The service consists of prayers for healing and wholeness with anointing and laying on of hands. All are invited.

During the prelude the congregation is asked to remain prayerfully or meditatively silent. The Chapel welcomes families with children; if at any time during the service your child needs a place for active play, please utilize the nursery in the Box Office on the second floor of Page.

DUKE UNIVERSITY CHAPEL

Duke Chapel is a Christian church of an unusually interdenominational character, with a tradition of stirring music, preaching, and liturgy. It is also a grand building, suitable for hosting major events in the life of the University and its members; it further acts as a moderator for the diversity of religious identity and expression on campus. We welcome you to our life of worship, learning, dialogue, and service, especially during this year of the Chapel's restoration during which we will gather to worship God in different places across Duke's campuses.
