

SERVICE OF WORSHIP

Seventh Sunday After Pentecost Sunday, July 11, 2021, 11:00 a.m.

Prophet Emil Nolde, 1912

In this week's lessons, Micah prophesies against the rulers of the house of Israel. He decries their inequity and injustice. He condemns those who hate the good and love the evil and calls to account those who falsely proclaim that because the Lord is with them no harm will come upon them. As an alternative to the ways of violence and injustice perpetuated by the leaders, Micah lifts the ways of the Lord. He proclaims that in the day of the Lord, peoples and nations will beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks and will not learn war anymore. In that day, God's people will walk in the name of the Lord, who will reign forevermore.

We believe and trust in the God who spoke through Micah and the prophets. We believe and trust in the God who pardons iniquities and passes over transgressions, who does not retain anger forever but delights in showing mercy, who will cast all our sins into the depths of the sea, and who shows faithfulness from the days of old. We believe and trust in the God of Abraham and Jacob, the God revealed in Jesus, who is the Christ. Amen.

The author of eleven books and many articles, her research interests focus on how biblical interpretation bears on the life of faith communities and their response to urgent public issues, particularly the ecological crisis and interfaith relations.

SUMMER SCRIPTURE LESSONS | As Christians who worship in a liturgical tradition, we follow the Revised Common Lectionary for our scripture texts throughout the year. This three-year cycle of scriptures follows the Christian calendar, and passages are selected to match the season of the church year and the themes present therein. This summer during Ordinary Time, we will follow a different selection of texts. Together, we will read several books of the Minor Prophets as our primary scripture lessons in our Sunday services, and our preachers will be preaching from them throughout the summer. Reading and listening together will allow our community to learn from scripture passages that we do not regularly encounter through the lectionary in our worship services and will open us to receive from a broader range of the scriptural canon; this approach is called lectio continua. We hope you will join us through the summer as we read, study, and learn from these books. For July 18, we invite you to read Micah 5, 6, and 7.

ENGAGE

UPDATED UNIVERSITY COVID PROTOCOLS In keeping with the university's updated COVID protocols, anyone who is unvaccinated is required to wear a mask at all times when inside Duke buildings, including inside the Chapel. We recognize and respect that some people may choose to continue wearing a mask as a means to prevent exposure to themselves or loved ones. Additionally, social distancing is no longer required on campus, though distancing is still recommended for those who are not vaccinated. The Chapel will continue to maintain specific weekday visiting hours with required registration and to limit attendance at services to 200 people with preregistration. Finally, because COVID vaccines are a matter of public health, we encourage all eligible people to receive one. Learn more and register to attend chapel.duke.edu/worship.
