Service of Worship

Eleventh Sunday after Pentecost

August 4, 2013

Eleven o'clock in the morning

∞ Keeping the heart of the University listening to the heart of God ∞

Scripture speaks to the simultaneously fierce and compassionate love of God. In Hosea, God's tenderness toward his people is profound—this God is not one who left creation to spin on its own, but he actively loves his people and yearns for them, even in the face of human fickleness. The passage in Luke speaks to the insidious nature of greed and the ways our possessions often come to possess us and prevent us from encountering the true abundance found only in Christ.

The congregation is asked to remain silent during the prelude as a time of prayer and meditation.

Good Jesus, word of the Father, splendor of the Father's glory,

QUESTIONS PEOPLE OFTEN ASK - WHY DO WE CONFESS OUR SINS?

Sin is not simply something that makes people unhappy or causes pain: it is life based on a false story, one that leads to worshipping something other than the triune God. However, the Christian story does not begin with sin but with God's decision to be in relationship with humanity and all creation. Thus when there is a breakdown of that relationship, by what has been done, or what has been left undone, it is a tragedy in which the congregation has participated. Repentance means naming and stripping away the things that distance the disciple from the gospel. From personal repentance, the congregation moves into corporate confession. It is not just individual sin that separates each person from God: sin infects the people of God as a whole. In confessing sin, we recognize that the people of this congregation have joined, each and every week, in the catastrophe of discarding God's everlasting invitation to worship and friendship.
