BRIDGING FAITH & LEARNING

SERVICE OF WORSHIP

Twenty-First Sunday after Pentecost
Sunday, October 14, 2018, 11:00 a.m.

Detail, Job, Léon Joseph Florentin Bonnat, 1880

The Bible speaks of the whole range of human experience before God, including lament and sorrow. In the anguish of his heart, Job feels the absence of the presence of God, the pain of which is intensified by his knowledge that the Lord is good. When we, like Job, encounter the desolations of the human life, we can trust in the reality of God's goodness. If we turn to Jesus in faith, he will be our advocate, as he knows the full reality of human weaknesses, sorrow, and suffering. For those who follow Jesus, even at great cost, there will be mercy and grace for help in time of need.

LEARNING THE LITURGY: OLD AND NEW TESTAMENT LESSONS | A representative of the gathered community stands to read selections from God's story told in the Old and New Testaments. Worshipers are welcome to use the pew Bibles in order to read as well as hear the texts for the day. Through the choral anthem, the choir often lifts up themes within the readings to help the gathered people experience and understand God's word. The story of God is revealed in the Bible through a variety of genres such as letters, history, and poems. The Bible, written over thousands of years, helps us meet the one, true God, revealed fully in Jesus, the living Word of God who is present with us now.

LUNCH TODAY | Please plan to stay after worship today to enjoy lunch with other worshippers in the Brodhead Center. In addition, the Congregation will collect clothing for local farm workers. Learn more at chapel.duke.edu/music.

NEW LECTIONARY COMMENTARY | Chapel Dean Luke A. Powery is a general editor of a new lectionary commentary for preaching and worship, which aims to help preachers connect congregations to Scripture. The first book in the nine-volume series—Connections: A Lectionary Commentary for Preaching and Worship—has just been released. Following the Revised Common Lectionary, this first book addresses the Scripture readings for the upcoming liturgical seasons of Advent through Epiphany. The approach of the series is to first view a Scripture passage in relationship with the rest of the Bible; and then see the reading through the lenses of culture, film, fiction, ethics, science, and other aspects of contemporary life. In addition to Dean Powery, other general editors of the series are the Rev. Drs. Joel B. Green, Thomas G. Long, Cynthia L. Rigby, and Carolyn J. Sharp. Learn more at wjkbooks.com/Connections.

NEW DEAN'S SCHOLARS PROGRAM | Seniors who are already Chapel Scholars are invited to apply for the Chapel's new Dean's Scholars program. Students chosen to be Dean's Scholars will have an opportunity to deepen their engagement with the Chapel by meeting with the Chapel Dean for discussions on readings chosen by the Dean. They will also be invited for a Dean's Scholars dinner at the end of the academic year. Learn more and apply at chapel.duke.edu/DeansScholars.
